Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 25th is at hand and I am enclosing a list of Numismatic Notes and Monographs as well as of other publications of ours still in print for any of which we shall be glad to have your order.

If you could give me some idea of the number of ancient coins you mention, or could send us photographs of them we might be able to aid you in identifying them, although we do not wish to deprive you of the benefit and experience that comes alone through attributing these early coins. I assume they are either Greek or Roman. If you could tell me more about them I might be able to make a suggestion that would aid your identification of them.

Very truly yours,

Secretary.

Gentlemen:

In looking over the American Journal of Archeology I found a review of an article in one of your publications known as "Numismatic Notes and Monographs".

Recently we have received at the museum a number of ancient coins and I have thought possibly some of your publications would be of service to us in our study of this collection.

I shall be pleased if you can supply me with a list of your publications including the series mentioned above.

Very truly yours,

H. S. Brode
